

Deregulation of the airwaves serves no one except big business. My husband and I oppose any further deregulation of the media industry. Media should be locally run and locally controlled as much as possible. The current plan will leave radio stations empty and running on automatic with 'Big Brother' programming. Please do not deregulate any further! The FCC is supposed to be serving the citizens, not big business. The airwaves belong to the citizens, not big business. The proposed rules will hurt everyone by decreasing choice, decreasing local control, decreasing variety, decreasing the range of viewpoints. Instead, please consider regulating more (reverse the 1996 rules) to give back to the people their airwaves. Darcia Narvaez & Dan Lapsley
